We are pleased to announce that the 46th. American Indian Workshop will be hosted at Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain, between 26-29 April 2025.

We invite papers on any topic related to Indigenous studies. Proposals focusing on North American Indigenous languages and traditional storytelling are particularly welcome:

Languages:

- Indigenous Linguistic Expressions
 - Indigenous Language Revival Programs
 - Sign Language
 - Writing systems
- ...etc.

Literature:

- Indigenous Literature
 - Literature about Indigenous People
 - Storytelling
 - Indigenous Publications
- ...etc.

Indigenous Culture:

- History
 - Socio Cultural Aspects
 - Religion
 - Economy
 - Legislation
 - Material Culture (Art, Objects, etc.)
 - Indigenous Representations in Museums
 - Non-Material Culture (Music, Songs, Dance, etc.)
 - Indigenous Film, Theater Performances, and Actors
- ...etc.

The AIW 2025 will be hybrid so it will be possible to present papers online.

The AIW always has a current research session, where scholars and students can report about their most recent research. A Poster session is also welcomed especially for young scholars and doctoral or M. A. students.

Deadlines and procedures:

- Please submit an abstract of your presentation (maximum 300 words including the name of the author(s), title, key words, examples, tables, figures, and references) and a short bio (100 words) by 1 September 2024 to the following email address: avelino.corral@uam.es;
- Authors should mention in the abstract whether they plan to present their paper online or in-person.
- Abstracts must be submitted in MS Word format (*.doc or *.docx) and set in Times New Roman with a font size 12 pt. The text must be justified, with 1 line-spacing used for running text.
- The organizers will notify acceptances by October 15, 2024.
- Accepted papers will be grouped into thematic sessions;
- The program will be available in mid-December on the dedicated conference website 46th. AIM website, which will be online shortly; in the meantime please consult the AIW site: www.american-indian-workshop.org.
- Presentations will last 20 minutes and be followed by discussion of 5-10 minutes:
- The registration fee is €100 (€20 for students).

We look forward to seeing you in Madrid in March 2025!
